Christmas is over for a year.

Next week, the State Legislature will

the "Greater New York" bill.

If Melio has his way, Brazil's new leaf

won't have Peixoto's name on it.

Chicago is threatened with a bread

famine in the very shadow of a big loaf.

As much security as the turkey ever

has falls on him now for eleven months.

Stephen Girard, who founded the college bearing his name, died sixty-two years ago to-day.

There was no Christmas skating, and most of the feasters who took on Christmas skates do so unobtrusively.

In Brooklyn the trolley has become a menace in New York, so far, it is only a sneak thief, but look out.

When the East River boasts as many bridges as the Harlem the "Greater

New York" will be well bound together.

And that will come.

By Uncle Sam, on the coming New

Year morning, hereafter, let herafter

I will mind my own business and let

Mrs. Hawaii do the same.

It will be just as well to keep an eye

on that One Hundred and Thirty-third street tunnel. It may take another spell of mushroom growth some favorable night.

Silence sometimes gives consent, but silence gives information. The people

you know, would like to hear

Police Commissioner Martin's answer to

"The World's" question about the source of his sudden wealth.

The merriest part of "The Evening

World's" Christmas card in the hopefulness of those little ones to whom several trees yesterday yielded the rich fruit

that grew in abundance through the

kindness of true friends of the children

and the paper.

1893 is going out with "Fifteen minutes

to Harlem" still an unrealized dream.

This is a great New York note that has been called upon to carry the rich fruit

that grew in abundance through the

kindness of true friends of the children

and the paper.

When Police Commissioner Martin has answered a few questions about the

roadway to sudden riches and Police

Commissioner Sheehan has explained a few points about those Long Island

sewer contracts—well, the people may, or may not, feel better satisfied.

For the brief remaining period of the present year it will continue to be true

that "As New York has no police patrol drag their prisoners through the streets." But there are bright hopes of a different state of affairs before

next year is done.

New York's own tribute, incommensurate with the morning. Do you want to see it hereafter blackened and thickened

and made foul by the smoke from soft-coal furnaces? Hardly, you think. Then let your voice be heard for the stamping

out of the soft-soot smoke demon at the very beginning of his threatening.

McKane gets his stall of proceedings and Kings County Jail must yearn for him in vain a little longer. So another scandal of delay is placed to the law's discredit. Justice in these days seems to be afflicted not only with blindness, but

with rheumatism, while the edge of her

sword is conspicuously blunted by contact with scamps, writs and appeals of various degrees.

THE CHRISTMAS TREES.

"The Evening World's" Christmas trees yesterday in this city, Brooklyn and Jersey, were the great successes. How could they be otherwise, considering the object they had in view, the energy employed in getting them up, and the liberality of the friends who aided the enterprise with money and goods.

The trees were successful, however, not alone in the large supply of toys and useful articles distributed among thousands of poor children, and the good order observed in the distribution, but in the moral effect of the happily conceived undertaking as well. The children who attended and were glad to see the trees, the parents who rejoiced at the happiness of their little ones, were made better through the effect of the Christmas-tree fund. Envy and dissatisfaction were driven out of their hearts and replaced by kindly gratitude to find that a multitude of strangers sympathized with them and relieved them of the opportunity to contribute to their enjoyment of the great holiday. The true lesson of the day was brought home to them by the universal love which was the best fruit of the trees.

To all who contributed to the fund "The Evening World" returns its grateful thanks and pledges itself to continue every year an undertaking that has proved so rich in good results and has served to test the kindly qualities of so many generous hearts.

A NEEDED INVESTIGATION.

The Police Commissioners should at once ascertain the cause of the alleged case of brutal clubbing by Policeman Wood, of the Mercer street squad, yesterday evening at the corner of Broadway and Fourteenth street, and of the disgraceful incidents accompanying the act.

According to the story, a respectable dressed man, under the influence of liquor, attempted to board a cable car at that spot and was ordered off by the conductor.

The man pleaded to be allowed to remain on the car, causing some delay, when the policeman, as alleged, interfered with a profane remark, began to club the offender, and was removed at once. Investigation should also be made of the alleged misconduct of the Captain towards the reporters. A profane background is unfit to be a captain of a precinct.

BABIES AND BIMETALISM.

Gov. Penneyer, of Oregon, has addressed a stirring Christmas letter to President Cleveland, which while it is not likely to rival in popularity or in widespread publicity the celebrated story of the night before Christmas, when all through the house not a creature was stirring, nor scarcely a mouse, and yet having an important effect on bimetalism and the National policy.

The Governor of Oregon avails himself of the day of roasting turkeys and Christmas trees to remind the President that the Legislature of Oregon, great as it is, is not as powerful in National affairs as the two Houses of Congress, and that he has been frequently urged to call that Legislature together to alleviate the condition of affairs and avert impending calamity, he feels that the President can do more even than a Penneyer in this direction. He therefore urges Mr. Cleveland to look upon his Christmas letter as a plea for the protection of health consequent on their having sufficiency of food and clothing, and as he tucks them up snugly and warmly to make up his mind at this Christmas season to commend Congress to do something for silver.

Declare the use of both gold and silver as standard money without discrimination against either metal," says Penneyer, and give relief to the "innocent victims of vicious financial legislation" in the Western State, "whose sufferings are bathed by the scathing tears of mothers bending over them in sorrow and grief."

This appeal to babies and bimetalism, to cradles and fair coinage is as touching as it is timely. Who can profess that its effect may be on our silver legislation?

BABY'S LOOKS MAKE TROUBLE.

There is a baby up on Eighth avenue in the city of New York, who is christened on Christmas Eve. It looks so much like his father and mother that there is considerable doubt as to which it resembles the closer, and at the children's ending two of the baby's uncles undertook to settle the point. They marched each other like a policeman with his own club, were beaten to turn and are now on Blackwell's Island brooding over what they don't know about infant physiognomy.

The baby isn't conscious of the stir it has already made in Eighth avenue circle, and goes on innocently innocently and looking more like its father and mother every minute. Although the two uncles are patched up with sticking plaster, and are in prison, nobody knows whether the baby looks more like its papa or its mamma. If the neighbors should take up the discussion and put the baby to the test, it is probable that the two uncles, invested with the avenue will be as full of excitement and moving miscellany as the day of the baby's birth.

The parents of the baby ought to do their best to prevent any more trouble over their offspring's looks. They can do this by dividing up the baby's features. Let papa claim the nose, the chin and the width between the ears and paint them red, and mamma can coat her claims, like the forehead, the high cheek bones, the eyes, etc., a vivid green. Then anybody may see at a glance that baby has papa's nose or mamma's eyes, or mamma's smile and papa's chin, and there need be no juggling of the resemblances and having family or neighborhood riots over them.

JOY UNDER THE TREES

Thousands of Children Were Made Glad Yesterday.

Thanks to the Generosity of "Evening World" Readers.

Friends of the Christmas Fund Sent Cheer Into Many Homes.

"Thanks to the generous readers of 'The Evening World,' the most like Christmas trees, yesterday were grand successes. Thousands of children were given toys and candies who would have had none were it not for the kindness of the friends of the Christmas-tree fund. There were thousands of poor children around the trees, and not one child remained to whom a toy was disappointed. Even in cases where the applicant had no ticket a present was not refused. Not only toys and dolls and candies were given out, but thousands of mittens, caps and articles of clothing were distributed among those who needed them. The presence of the Christmas-tree fund, then in cases where the applicant had no ticket a present was not refused.
